

Ego no. 100Abimis signs its 100th Ego kitchen, created for an exclusive private residence in Munich

Modern interiors with vintage touches characterise this elegant private residence in the heart of the Bavarian capital.

The contemporary, plain and simple style of every room in this home takes its inspiration from the past, featuring unique and original objects, furniture with antique charm and sophisticated furnishing accessories. These fascinating items, carefully mixed with pieces of modern art and design icons, define this apartment's identity and atmosphere, which is sophisticated yet cosy at the same time.

The kitchen is open plan, creating a welcoming, free and well-organised space that is also home to the dining area, a room where it is possible to spend time together day after day and where all actions, from storing and preparing food to the act of cooking itself, are transformed into opportunities to share experiences and emotions.

This Ego kitchen by Abimis features an impressive, large, free-standing island which is undoubtedly the star of this room. The adjustable spotlights on the ceiling further highlight its 'central' role, cleverly distributing their beams to enhance the kitchen below, creating the right balance of light throughout the entire room. The cooking, washing and work areas also play a key role, all of which are positioned on the same joint-free top.

The real uniqueness of the Ego concept is expressed here through a specific decorative detail: the number commemorating the 100th Ego kitchen by Abimis can be seen on one of the large, ergonomic handles, featured here in a sophisticated brass finish. An important 'symbol' for this iconic kitchen, which has brought the top performance of professional catering into the home, offering a new way to experience contemporary kitchens.

Featuring the characteristic bevelled flush doors, perfectly integrated into the structure, and the invisible hinge patented by Abimis, this particular Ego kitchen has a shiny, "mirror-effect" finish, with an orbitally polished recessed socle.

This kitchen by Abimis also features a series of tall units with stainless steel doors, all with an orbitally polished finish; these units are home to the refrigerator, oven and a number of storage compartments for food and utensils.

This bespoke Ego kitchen, made entirely from AISI 304 stainless steel, ensures maximum freedom of movement, not only making the various stages of the cooking process much easier, but also adding a special touch to daily life in the kitchen.

Perfectly blending together aesthetics and functionality, Ego transforms every kitchen into the most welcoming room of the house, representing a place to spend the entire day relaxing, sharing experiences and socialising. It makes this space functional and able to cater for the owner's specific habits and requirements, always ensuring top performance in terms of hygiene and safety.

Abimis for a private residence in Munich

Photo credits: Matteo Cirenei